

Dig, Dig, Dig!

5 The air begins to cool.

16 Then, the farmer can dig things up and turn the soil.

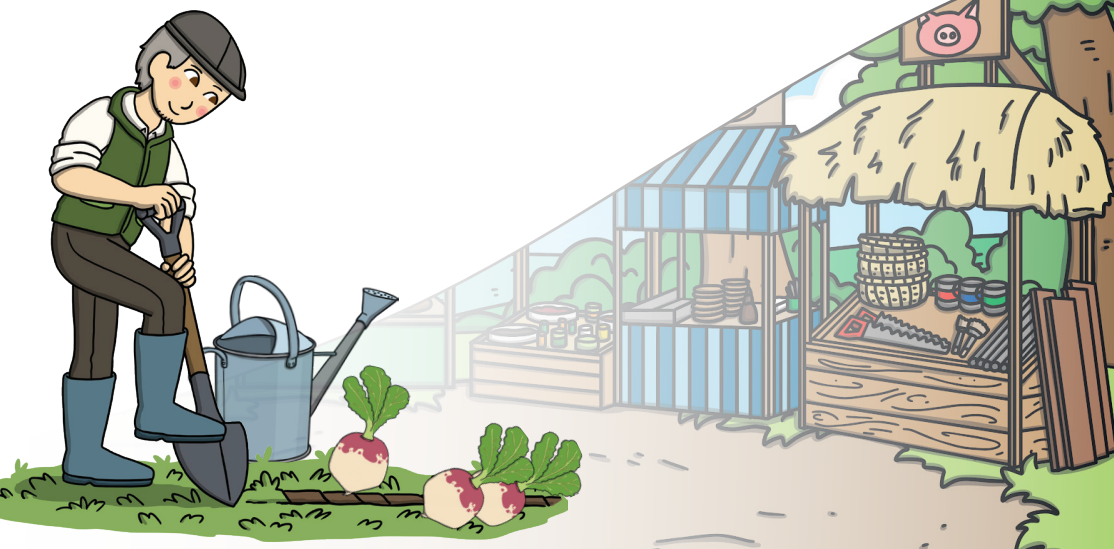

19 Dig, dig, dig!

27 He can dig up all his fat turnips.

35 He can dig up all his red beetroot.

46 He can put them in baskets and go to the market.

53 He can sell them at the market.

Read Together Quick Questions

1. Can you think of a different word to describe the turnips?

2. What is the missing word?

He can put them in _____ and go to the market.

3. What will happen to the turnips and the beetroot at the market?

4. What happens first in this text?

Dig, Dig, Dig!

5 The air begins to cool.

16 Then, the farmer can dig things up and turn the soil.

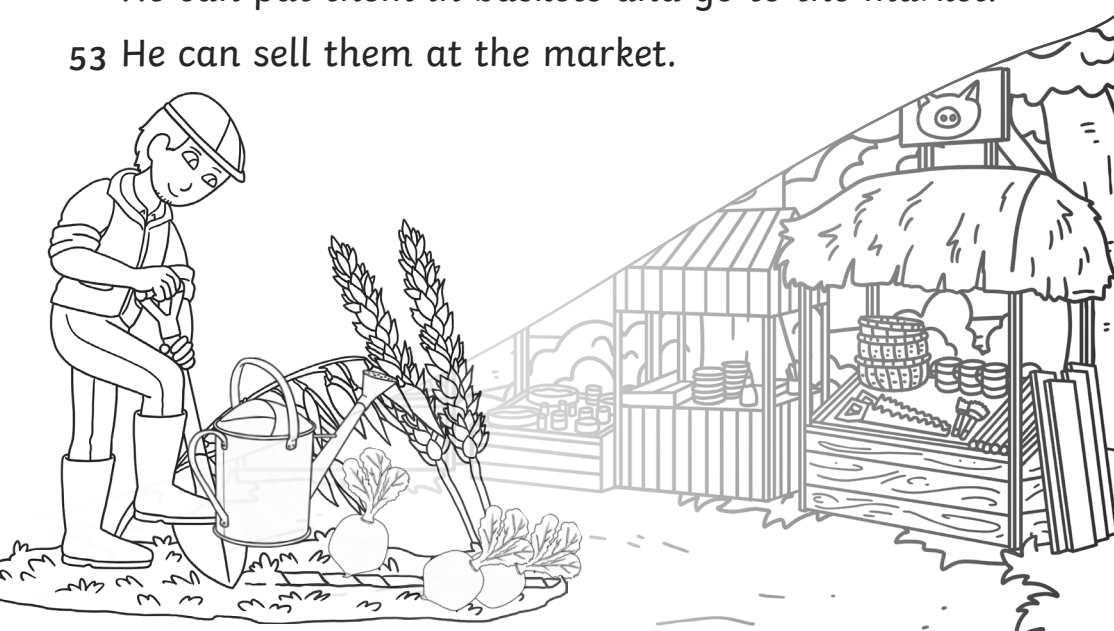

19 Dig, dig, dig!

27 He can dig up all his fat turnips.

35 He can dig up all his red beetroot.

46 He can put them in baskets and go to the market.

53 He can sell them at the market.

Answers

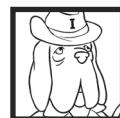

1. Can you think of a different word to describe the turnips?

Pupils' own responses, such as: round, plump, purple.

2. What is the missing word?

He can put them in baskets and go to the market.

3. What will happen to the turnips and the beetroot at the market?

Pupils' own responses, such as: I think people will come to the market to buy the turnips and beetroot.

4. What happens first in this text?

The air begins to cool is the first thing that happens in this text.